

STAY NOTES.

Tom Placide, the famous old comedian, married in New York the other day a woman to whom he is said to be devotedly attached.

Mr. Thomas Ball, the Boston sculptor, has completed a very admirable statue of John A. Andrew, which will be placed in the city of Boston.

An evening journal called The Daily World has been commenced in Toronto by Mr. A. H. Germain.

Frederick W. Symonds, the pedestrian, arrived at Chicago on Saturday afternoon, after a tramp of 1,200 miles.

A letter from Frederick City, Md., says that among other things damaged by the recent flood, was the house from which, as Whittier has told us, Dame Barbara Fritcher waved the stars and stripes over the Stonewall Jackson's force.

Two men ascended to the summit of the mountain of the Catholic Church at Fall River the other day, and were seen to be engaged in a game of cards.

When The Helena (Montana) Herald wishes to change an enemy with pulling himself, it mildly asserts that he "blows it" by calling a "bullet" a "bullet."

The English Reform League have discovered the mechanism of the disturbance at the recent meeting of the League at New York.
